

BLOODY KANSAS

A Steampunk/Victoriana themed Army Pack for roleplaying and military simulations in an alternative/weird 1800's American West

Figures modified by Craig Robotham from originals by

PATRICK CRUSIAU

and other modified figures by

Dewayne Agin

John Acar

Mahotsukai_UK

Historygamer_2

and Shaungamer_88

In Kansas it was a man's world. The bloody conflict between North and South raged on in the East while in Kansas armed militias roamed the streets. It was getting so a girl couldn't go to the general store without placing her honor in jeopardy. But that was before Professor Grissom arrived in town with his special range of fabulous new steam-powered home-security products and conveyances (marketed exclusively to women).

His patented flame-thrower, steam-gyro, steam-cyle, and the ever-popular steam-horse have all been huge sellers among the town's women-folk. And for those women who had already suffered harm in these violent times, his patented range of steam-powered prosthetics and attachments granted a new lease on life. With his steam-driven personal escort automatons patrolling the streets (not pictured - see John Acar's fantastic set of steam robots - modified from Patrick Crusiau and Historygamer 2's models - in his yahoo showcase) the town has settled down into a steady peaceful rythm.

However, tension simmers just beneath the surface. The closure of the Saloon by the Female Temperance Society, and the banning of the sale of alcohol within city limits has led to murmurs of deep dis-satisfaction among some of the men-folks (not pictured - or even designed yet). Who knows how long it will be before violence breaks out anew?

